Martinez brings home the bronze medal from State Tennis Meet

by Sarah Barton
The Junction Eagle

Junction is on the map once more, put there by freshman Lady Eagle Jessey Martinez when she came away with the bronze medal at the 2A State Tennis Meet in Austin on Monday of this week. This is the first time a JHS girl tennis player has gone to state since doubles partners Misty Watson and Tiffany Casaday represented Junction in 1992.

Back in June, after hearing that Martinez had won her first round match, play in the semi-finals, community members were eagerly and anxiously awaiting results. Then came the following Facebook post from her mother, Doreen Robles Martinez (who herself, with her doubles partner, Donna Abidez Broyles, had come away from State Finals with silver medals during their JHS senior year in 1982). “Jessey GI’D coming home with a bronze medal!” She lost in the semi-final, split sets and came up short... 6-7, 7-5 and 3-6 in the 3rd set, she played her heart out and Coach B was awesome. Thanks again for all the support, comments and text. “This is an awesome season! We are VERY proud and blessed parents!”

ADA McCullough resigns

According to Ames Barton, District Attorney for 198th, his assistant, Brad McCullough, tendered his resignation on Tuesday, May 1. McCullough told Barton verbally and by letter that he needed to resign in order to focus on his campaign. He is running for District Attorney against Scott Monroe. Barton had earlier announced that he would not seek another term as DA of the 198th.

Due to the prolonged illnesses of Barton’s other Assistant D.A., Donna Coleman, the 198th District is already short-handed. Barton said in a phone interview, shortly after receiving McCullough’s letter of resignation, that he was already “scrambling”.

Meanderings
by Frederica Wyatt

One of the many advantages of our country’s long and varied landscape is the “genesis” of our plant life enabling us to enjoy the flora, but—also—flowers of the desert. This week, I observed the fragrant beauty of Desert Willow trees, as well as the delightful Muscari of Nicky Pearl Cacchi. Along Saturday’s route to Seven Springs, I beheld many wild flowers still abloom.

A gelatinous curve over the hill, I saw the news of the tragic deaths of Wade Richardon and his son, Kyle. A plane crash claimed their lives Wednesday, April 25, in their hometown of Sonora. The surviving widow and mother is the former June Schwartz, a daughter of Gertrude and the late Charlie Schwartz of Junction. Wade’s parents are Glenn (a former teacher) and Jane Schwartz, a daughter of Alva’s parents, Richard and Lizzie Joy.

Condemnes are extended to the families who are bereft of their loved ones.

Leita Sutton Nobles

Leita Sutton Nobles, 93 1/2, passed away Friday, April 27, 2012, in San Angelo, Texas, after a short illness. She was born to Robert Lee Sutton and Lillie Turner Sutton on October 13, 1918, on the Colorado River Bend Area. She was one of nine children. She is survived by one brother, Leo “Boss” Sutton of Monahans, Texas, and many nieces and nephews, including Ron Sutton, son of Leonid Sutton, of Junction. She was preceded in death by her husband, Olgie Nobles, and one son, Ferris Leon James. Mrs. Nobles and her husband, Olgie, were associated with Leonard in the pecan, fur, and ranching business in Junction during the late 50’s and early 60’s. In the spring of 1988, her husband, Olgie, was murdered by arsenic poisoning from a young business associate and Leita was likewise poisoned by him, but survived, which left her wheelchair bound. Her nephew, District Attorney Ron Sutton, began investigating the death of Olgie which led to the arrest and prosecution of Tim Scoggins for Olgie’s death, and poisoning of Leita along with the murder of two old maid sisters in Llano. He is still serving a series of long penitentiary sentences. This story prompted several books and TV specials relating to the poisoning and deaths of these individuals. Leita lived alone the rest of her life, while wheelchair bound, together with her cats and later a small dog named “Sugar”. She often said that she was a “Tough old Gal”. We want to thank the staff and Dr. Martinez’s office and the staff of Hill Country Care Center for the care, affection and support shown to our loved one Nell Marie Patterson, during her stay in Junction. We appreciate all you did for her. Diane and Michelle Michaelis

One of the changes coming about as a result of the new austerity in state and federal budgets is a greater reliance on non-profit volunteer groups to take over part of the watchdog duties. There are over 3,000 monopolies in Texas working on conservation issues. Keep Junction Beautiful and the South Llano Watershed Alliance are just two of them. I don’t think of either as much of a watchdog group, but they are definitely interested in improving our community, spreading educational information and offering assistance in making us part of the world’s cleaner. I am sure that if members of either group saw something going on that damaged our environment they would blow the whistle on those offenses. If that makes them watch dogs, may be they really are after all.

Andy Sansom spoke last week in Kerrville, and I took notes for you. He is the former Executive Director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and also the former Executive Director of the Texas Nature Conservancy. He was speaking on water and the future of the Texas Hill Country. He is currently the Executive Director of the River Systems Institute at Texas State in San Marcos. He points out that in the next 30-70 years, the population of Texas will double from where we are today. Water rights purchased in the early 1900’s were issued statewide already exceed the amount of water that is available. After going through two years of drought, the thought that we could have twice as many people fighting over the amount of water we had during the last two summers should scare all of us. He points out that currently 90 percent of all Texas live in urban areas. That means that many of our water decisions will be made by politicians representing major cities and not our agricultural communities.

Speaking of major metropolitan areas, two of them, El Paso and San Antonio have been able to cut water consumption by 40%. The rest are still planting St. Augustine and building golf courses. Thirty percent of our water production statewide is lost by cities between the water tower and the meters on our homes. I have spoken with Joe at our water plant, and he doesn’t think we lose quite that much. But he pointed out that water line leaks, water treatment losses and fire hydrant uses do count towards that lost water that we pump but don’t get to use.

Our standard City of Junction water conservation plan starts on May 1 and runs until September 15 unless a more stringent Drought Contingency Plan has to go into effect. Even numbered addresses may now water on even days and odd addresses may water on odd numbered days, and no one is allowed outdoor watering between noon and 6 pm. Water is critical to us, and this will always be the case. Conserving water is how we all make life better in the Land of Living Waters.

Kimble County Cook’s Nook

By Clara Margaret Schwiening St. Clair

Dear Eagle Readers,

During this election year, I think we can all agree on at least one thing, Kimble County is a family-oriented, faith-based community. We are blessed with so many ways to express our religious and spiritual freedom. This week’s Mother’s Day Cook Nook Series features Amy Gipson and her family, who I believe embody the family characteristics and are fine examples of what our citizens stand for.

Amy is married to Chad, and they are the parents of April, 16; Maranda, 16, and Emilee, 12; three very busy teenagers. They own Gipson Construction, and in addition to helping Chad with the company, Amy also works part-time for Dovville, Goldman and Allen, a local CPA firm. Amy also gives herself tirelessly and unselfishly to the service of an active Christian ministry, which includes a prayer group, Emmanuel, working with others and some church programs. Amy and her family, her mother, Shirley Goodman, and her husband Charlie, and Chad’s parents, Dale and Cindy Gipson, are all members of First United Methodist Church in Junction.

On the subject of cooking, Amy admitted that, as the baby in her family, she did not learn to cook because she didn’t have to.... “I was spoiled!” She didn’t say whether or not this condition carried forward into adulthood, and none of her friends are willing to step up and give their view on this matter. (Amy, I did see a couple of little winks out of the corner of my eye when I asked.) Like many women, it was a husband and children who gave Amy the “desire” to cook.

A childhood memory dear to Amy’s heart is the daily sharing family meals at home. Amy has made sure that her girls have experienced the same tradition with she and Chad. For Amy, cooking and eating have strong ties to family. Of the three girls, Gipson and Emilee Gipson and April Gipson

An Evening of Dance now on sale

Tickets are now on sale for the San Angelo Civic Ballet’s 44th annual spring performance, An Evening of Dance. The performance takes place May 18 and 19 at the Bill Ayer Memorial River Stage. This exciting performance will be guest choreographed by Roger Van Fleteren, Associate Artistic Director and Resident Choreographer of the Alabama Ballet in Birmingham, Alabama. Van Fleteren is a former American Ballet Theatre soloist and also performed as a principal dancer with the London City Ballet. His original choreography for Alabama Ballet includes Romeo and Juliet, Dracula, Swan Lake, Cinderella and Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Mr. Van Fleteren’s innovative choreography and passion for the dance have been instrumental in creating a unique and entertaining experience for audiences around the world.

In addition to Van Fleteren’s guest performances, the San Angelo Civic Ballet members will also be showcased in the performance. This is an exciting opportunity for the audience to see the talent and hard work of the San Angelo Civic Ballet’s own dancers under the direction of Meghann Bridgeman.

Now, both artists will show off their creative visions on the same stage with the San Angelo Civic Ballet dancers along with professional guest dancers from Ballet Austin. Audience members will be amazed by the level of artistic dramatic movement which will draw them in and make the outdoor setting of the River Stage feel like a small, intimate theater.

Guests at this magical evening have the choice of purchasing reserved table seating or general admission lawn seating. Table includes a gourmet picnic dinner and wine to enjoy by candlelight. This year audience members on the terraced lawn are encouraged to bring blankets and picnic baskets to enjoy the performance. There will also be a cash bar available for all audience members. A very limited number of chairs will be available for use by general admission patrons on the lawn.

Tickets are $45 for dinner and performance, $330 for a table of 8 with dinner and performance, or $10 for general admission seating of performance only. Tickets may be purchased at the SABC office located at 15 W. Broadway, Blairs Western Wear, or by phone at (325) 446-3462. It is recommended that you purchase admission to this performance in advance for guaranteed admission.

Also, scientists will analyze watershed data to assess conditions and make recommendations for the watershed, in an effort to achieve natural resource goals, provide education and training, and establish workshops to help implement best management practices, including land stewardship, riparian protection and wildlife habitat plans, and create a water and watershed knowledge plan for the area through education programs.

In addition, there will be a mini performance by guests from Ballet Austin. Audience members will be amazed by the level of artistic dramatic movement which will draw them in and make the outdoor setting of the River Stage feel like a small, intimate theater.

Get more information about this performance by calling the San Angelo Civic Ballet at (325) 653-8877 or visiting www.sanangelocivicballet.org. Programs may be found at the organizations website.

Scott Andrews, Chief Executive Officer, was named a District Attorney that we will all be proud of. We will see a little better knowing that Scott is our District Attorney. Scott Andrews was an excellent prosecutor, skilled in the courtroom and tough on crime. We saw a Fresh Law Enforcement Commissioner which is a very special thing to have. – Tommy Loose, Retired Narcotic lieutenant, Texas Department of Public Safety
